Students learn through service

"Eight days of immersion in a fast-paced political environment, growing through love, laughter, and tears, changed my life forever."

Imagine being surrounded by five-year-old African-American children who shower you with affectionate hugs only minutes after meeting you. Or picture George, a middle-aged man who volunteers eight hours a day at an employment office, skips his lunch break to volunteer in a soup kitchen, and returns at night to his bed at a homeless shelter.

Putting yourself in a situation that you could never imagine is the best way to describe a Wartburg service trip. On my February trip to Washington, D.C., I faced situations I had never experienced while growing up in rural Iowa. Eight days of immersion in a fast-paced political environment, growing through love, laughter, and tears, changed my life forever.

My week involved working in a daycare center for homeless children, painting an after-school teen center, working in an employment office, and volunteering at a soup kitchen.

My encounters with homeless people, volunteers, and political leaders challenged me to question the ideas and stereotypes instilled in me as a child. My interactions with people from other cultures and backgrounds served me more than I could have ever served them in volunteering only a week of my time.

I was able to look inside myself—to question my own values, beliefs, and faith. The experience also made me question our political system and the injustices that abound. In D.C., it was common to see the homeless on one side of the street, while people dressed in suits and ties were walking on the other side. Experiences like this may turn one away from politics, but Wartburg trip leaders emphasized that as students and budding professionals, we have the power to change the system and learn to work within it for improvement. I also learned ways in which I can utilize my education to serve in the Lutheran Volunteer Corps after graduation.

A service trip involves emotional, spiritual, and mental growth. The six different 1996 service trips gave more than 70 students the opportunity to grow and learn in the typical Wartburg "hands-on" way.

'Meet world's great need,' Dovre tells grads

Dr. Paul Dovre, president of Concordia College in Moorhead, Minn., emphasized the role of service to others in his Baccalaureate sermon to nearly 290 students in the Wartburg Class of 1996.

"Ours is a ministry of reconciliation—of reaching out, of making the Gospel difference," Dovre told the graduates. "You have a calling where your deep gladness can meet the world's great need."

Dovre recognized the active role Wartburg students and alumni have taken in service to others, calling it "something of a tradition among the Knights."

"You have become acquainted with standards of quality and excellence that serve the neighbor and please God. You have the resources of the liberal arts, which help you see both the complexities of this world and those revelations of the natural and the supernatural that make it whole. You have the experience of community in this place that models grace and service. You have the resources of the Gospel tradition."

Students receive graduate fellowships

Three 1996 Wartburg graduates have received prestigious fellowships for graduate study.

Tim Dettmer of Spencer, Iowa, is one of four recipients nationwide of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America's Torrison Scholarship. Jesse C. Severe of Sheffield, Iowa, received one of the two fellowships awarded annually by the R.J. McElroy Trust of Waterloo, Iowa. Lucas DeWitt of Spencer, Iowa, is the first Wartburg student to receive a James Madison Fellowship.

Dettmer's scholarship will provide $4,500 toward his medical studies at the University of Iowa. He completed a double major in biology and chemistry.

Severe, a history, religion, and philosophy major, will use his award to pursue a doctorate in history at the University of Iowa. The McElroy Fellowship provides a $7,500 stipend renewable for two additional years.

DeWitt will attend Iowa State University, where he plans to concentrate on the interpretation of the Constitution during the Civil War. The award will fund up to $24,000 toward his course of study. It requires him to teach American history or social studies in a secondary school for at least one year for each year of fellowship support.

Tanzanian scholar to teach Fall Term

Dr. Anselm Buluda Itandala of Tanzania will teach African history Fall Term as a Fulbright Scholar-in-Residence at Wartburg.

He has taught history at the University of Dar Es Salaam since 1974. He has also written a history of Tanzania to 1890. He is working on a text for teaching the history of the Wasukuma, Tanzania's largest ethnic group.

Istandala is a 1968 graduate of the University of Wisconsin-Madison and earned his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees at Dalhousie University in Nova Scotia.

Kramer, Schuessler retire from faculty

Sixty-five years of teaching at Wartburg came to an end in May when Dr. Melvin Kramer '52 of the Business Administration and Economics Department and Dr. Axel Schuessler of the History Department announced their retirements.

KRAMER came to Wartburg in 1956 after teaching for two years at Primghar High School and earning his M.A. degree in 1955 at the University of Iowa. He completed a Ph.D. degree at Iowa in 1966.

He chaired the department from 1956 through 1984, when he was appointed director of Wartburg's Experiential Business Education Programs. He was a guest lecturer in management courses at several other colleges, at Salsbury Laboratories in Charles City, Iowa, and at John Deere Manufacturing in Waterloo, Iowa. He also served as a mediator, fact finder, and arbitrator for the State of Iowa in public contract disputes.

SCHUESSLER, who was born in Germany, came to Wartburg in 1969. His research specialty is pre-classical Chinese language. His Dictionary of Early Zhou Chinese resulted from eight years of study and research, including a three-year leave funded by a National Endowment for the Humanities grant.

He earned his doctorate in Sinology, classical Chinese philology, at the University of Munich in 1966 and received several grants for language training at the Stanford Center in Taipei. Prior to joining the Wartburg faculty, Schuessler taught for four years at Wayne State University in Detroit, Mich.

Wartburg simplifies transfer process

Beginning this fall, joint admission agreements will simplify enrollment for students who wish to transfer to Wartburg after starting work on their bachelor's degree at a two-year college.

Students admitted to Waldorf College, Hawkeye Community College, and North Iowa Area Community College can be accepted into a parallel program at Wartburg, provided they complete their Associate of Arts degree and meet Wartburg's admission criteria. Upon completing the A.A. degree, they will transfer to Wartburg as third-year students.

While attending the two-year college, students will work with a Wartburg faculty adviser and receive periodic information about their academic program at Wartburg.

According to Dr. Edith Waldstein '73, associate dean for academic affairs and registrar, transfer students who meet the joint admission criteria will be reasonably assured of completing their bachelor's degree at Wartburg within an additional two years.

Gremmels' book now available in new edition

When Wartburg English professor Marion Chapman Gremmels '52 died in 1987, many of her students lamented that her children's book, The Cat Who Knew the Meaning of Christmas, was out of print.

According to the Gremmels family, a new edition of the book will soon be available, and its royalties will be donated to Wartburg.

Augsburg Fortress Publishers has reissued the book with the same text and new full-color artwork. Royalties are designated for the Marion Gremmels Memorial Women's Studies Scholarship.

First published in 1972, the book tells of a young boy named Andrew whose cat, Cricket, brings to life the legend that animals can speak on Christmas Eve. Cricket also explains why Christmas is so meaningful to a cat and to all people.

The new edition is dedicated to "all who love cats and Christmas—and all who remember the author as a loving, wise, inspiring teacher."

Copies may be ordered from the Wartburg Bookstore at 1-800-772-2085, ext. 8227. Cost is $6.99 plus $2 for postage and handling. The Bookstore accepts MasterCard and Visa credit cards.

College appoints new academic dean

Dr. Mary Margaret Smith joined Wartburg College in July as vice president for academic affairs and dean of the faculty. She replaces Dr. James Pence, who accepted a similar appointment at St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn.

Smith had been executive assistant to the president since 1995 and professor of political science since 1988 at the College of St. Francis, Joliet, Ill. She chaired the college's department of history and political science from 1989 to 1993.

As an American Council on Education Fellow in Higher Education Administration during the 1993-94 academic year, Smith was assigned to the office of the president at Gettysburg College in Pennsylvania. From 1981 to 1989, she was assistant vice president for academic affairs at St. Joseph's College, Rensselaer, Ind. She has also taught at Southern Illinois University and St. Louis University.

Prior to joining the academic world, she spent a year as a legislative intern with Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma, former speaker of the House of Representatives. She worked for four years as a youth and adult program director with the Y.W.C.A. and two years as an executive director and program services director for local councils of the Girl Scouts of America.

A teacher throughout her academic career, she was the first recipient of the Excellence in Teaching Award at St. Joseph's and received the Achievement of Distinction award at the College of St. Francis.

Smith is the author of numerous papers and publications and has a paper forthcoming on "Reagan's Judicial Appointments: Anticipatory Socialization in Four United States District Courts."

Last year, she was a consultant at Eckerd College on the development of a Center for Learning and Teaching and at Milliken University on core curriculum and faculty development.

A nature photographer, she has had three exhibits and won first place at the Audubon Nature Photography Exhibit last year.

Smith graduated from Lindenwood College in Missouri in 1970 and earned her M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from St. Louis University.

MAAC recognizes American ethnic grads

Ten Wartburg May graduates received Minority Alumni Advisory Committee awards at an appreciation banquet in April.

The event recognizes American ethnic students who have earned degrees at the college.

Recipients and their majors included Darren Bell, Wheaton, Ill., elementary education; Danielle Campbell, Waterloo, Iowa, elementary education/ social studies emphasis; Kirstey Ewald, Rockford, Iowa, English/secondary education; Kim Fritzke, Manitowoc, Wis., elementary education; and Jeffrey Gamez, Cresco, Iowa, biology.

Others were John Grant, Bayonne, N.J., psychology/secondary education; Sharnina Grant, Chicago, Ill., social work; Karume Hickman, Waterloo, Iowa, mathematics; Carla Mancera, Orland Park, Ill., psychology/sociology; and Juliet Muwezi, Wichita, Kan., psychology.

Co-chairing the MAAC Committee this year are Johgina Densmore '86 of Chicago, Ill., and Marvin Spencer '88 of Waterloo, Iowa.

McElroy, Slife scholars

Three 1996 graduates of East High School in Waterloo, Iowa, will receive Wartburg's McElroy or Slife Minority Scholarships. They are, from left, Marcus Wise, Keialana Lee, and Derick Frizell. A fourth recipient, Eric Adams of Cedar Falls, Iowa, High School, is not pictured. Scholarship selection was based on an interview and an essay. Funds for the scholarships were provided by the R.J. McElroy Trust of Waterloo and the late Harry and Polly Slife of Cedar Falls.

Regents approve tenure, promotions

Two Wartburg faculty members received tenure, and five were promoted at the Board of Regents spring meeting.

Dr. Todd Reiher, who teaches psychology, and Dr. Peggy Pruisner, who teaches education, received tenure and were promoted to associate professor.

Promoted to full professor were Dr. Paul Torkelson of the music faculty, Dr. Ann Henninger of the biology faculty, and Dr. Terrence Lindell of the history faculty.

Board of Regents continues challenge for annual gifts

To emphasize the importance of annual giving, the Wartburg College Board of Regents is continuing its challenge for new and increased gifts.

Brian MacGregor, director of the Annual Fund, said the board will match gift increases of $100 or more and first-time gifts of $100 or more. The dollar-for-dollar match counts toward Tower Club membership.

The $75,000 challenge is effective through May 31, 1997.

Vallem named Iowa Social Worker of Year

Susan Vallem '66, chair of the Wartburg Social Work Department, received this year's Iowa Social Worker of the Year award from the National Association of Social Workers' Iowa chapter.

The award recognizes her dedication to social work education and her ability to bring a sense of excitement and professionalism to the learning environment, according to Leila R. Carlson, executive director of the chapter.

World becomes classroom for May Term courses

A total of 118 Wartburg students left the United States during May Term for cultural immersion experiences abroad.

The largest number, 38, were in Israel, participating in archaeological excavation at the Bethsaida site and studying how their findings relate to the Bible. They spent two weeks in Jerusalem, two weeks at the Bethsaida dig in Galilee, and a week in Bethlehem.

Twenty-nine students were in Guyana on the northern coast of South America. They spent time in a rainforest, experienced life in a remote Amerindian village and in the capital city of Georgetown, and participated in service projects.

A literary tour of England occupied 17 students, who visited such cities as London, Bath, Oxford, Stratford-on-Avon, Edinburgh, York, Cambridge, and Canterbury.

Nine students lived with the Maasai Tribe in Tanzania, experiencing actual life in the Maasai culture through direct interaction with the people and their environment.

Another group studied Hispanic culture and/or the Spanish language in Cuernavaca, Mexico. In addition to study at the Cuernavaca Language School, the 19 participants toured the area and lived with Mexican families.

Six students spent May Term at the Europa Kolleg in Kassel, Germany, where they studied the German language, toured, and lived with German families.

'Learner's library' envisioned for Wartburg

Needs of the learner will be the focus of a new library advancing through the planning stages at Wartburg.

According to President Robert Vogel, architects Woollen, Molzan & Partners of Indianapolis, Ind., are creating schematic drawings and preliminary design concepts based on a description of the new building's functions and features.

Library Director Jill Gremmels '80, who worked on the vision statement for the new facility, said traditional libraries collect, organize, preserve, and provide access to information.

In contrast, the "learner's library" envisioned for Wartburg provides an environment in which communities of learners discover and construct knowledge.

"The environment will express the liveliness and excitement that accompanies hands-on collaborative learning," said Gremmels.

Vogel noted that the goals and objectives for a new library cannot be achieved in Engelbrecht Library, which consists of a 1970 addition built around a 1958 core.

"A 21st century library is an integral part of the college's Drive for Distinctiveness," he said.

Joel Clemmer, librarian at Macalester College and consultant on the project, called Wartburg's plan "distinctive in stretching the traditional definition of the library and interweaving it with concerns for the intellectual development of students and faculty."

The vision statement for the new library is available on the World Wide Web at <http://www.wartburg.edu>. Follow the links to "Library Services" and "Engelbrecht Library."

October Futures Project will focus on libraries

Libraries of the future will be the focus of the third annual Wartburg Futures Project scheduled for Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 14 and 15.

The event opens with a 7 p.m. convocation on Oct. 14. Evans Woollen, architect for the new Wartburg library, will discuss his vision for the library of the future.

Sessions on Oct. 15 will focus on a variety of issues related to libraries.

Social worker receives Graven Award

A noted Lutheran social worker received Wartburg's seventh annual Judge Henry N. and Helen T. Graven Award for outstanding Christian lay work during the 50th anniversary year of the college's social work program.

The award was presented Feb. 20 to James J. Raun of Warwick, Md. It goes to a person "whose life is nurtured and guided by a strong sense of Christian calling and who is making a significant contribution to community, church and society."

Raun, born in India of missionaries of the United Lutheran Church in America, has spent his entire life in the social work field. He retired in 1987 as president of Lutheran Social Service of Minnesota.

He was a social worker and director with the Lutheran Welfare Society of Minnesota and South Dakota and the Lutheran HomeFinding Society of Illinois. He served as director of the Board of Social Ministry in the Central Pennsylvania Synod of the Lutheran Church in America, and at Tressler Lutheran Home for Children and Lutheran Social Services of the Central Region, both in Harrisburg, Pa.

Following his official retirement, he served part-time as executive director of the Coalition of Executives of Lutheran Social Ministry Organizations and as a private practice consultant until July 1995.

He continues to chair the church council at St. Mary's Lutheran Church. He is vice-chair of the Northern Chesapeake Hospice in Elkton, Md.; chairs the Mission Resource Institute in Gettysburg, Pa.; and is a member of the Division for Church in Society for the Delaware-Maryland Synod, the Delmarva Conference Ministry Planning Committee and the board of directors of Tressler Lutheran Services in Mechanicsburg, Pa.

Raun is a graduate of the University of Minnesota, where he also earned his Master of Social Work degree. He has also studied at the Northwestern Lutheran Theological Seminary in Minneapolis. His daughter, Mary Ellen, graduated from Wartburg in 1972.

ORGAN INSTALLED—Though installation of the new Wartburg Chapel organ is now complete, this was the scene in the west balcony during its assembly. The first recitals on the new instrument are scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Sept. 12, Wartburg's Opening Convocation, and 4 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 15.

Organ dedication set

The new Wartburg Chapel organ will be dedicated Thursday, Sept. 12, at the college's Opening Convocation. Dr. Karen Larson, college organist and associate professor of music, will present the first recital on the new instrument following the 9:30 a.m. dedication ceremony.

The organ installation was completed in time for two weddings on June 29. The new instrument replaces a portable organ that had been used in the chapel since its opening in 1994.

Built by Dobson Pipe Organ Builders, Ltd., of Lake City, Iowa, the instrument has 31 ranks and a total of 1,771 pipes playable on two manuals and pedal. It features a mechanical key action, electric stop action, and a solid state multilevel combination system. Its maple cabinet coordinates with the other woodwork in the building.

"Like the chapel, which takes its inspiration from the architecture of German parish churches, the organ's tonal character was inspired by the old German Baroque organs," said organ designer Lynn Dobson. "These organs were located in a shallow and high case of solid wood placed in a west-end gallery, where the sound could project freely through the room."

The mechanical key action provides a direct link between the player and the pipes. The tonal design incorporates a chorus of stops with a good balance of low, middle, and high pitches for accompanying voices and congregational singing.

Dobson said his intention in using the German Baroque model was to relate the new instrument "to the long and glorious liturgical traditions of the Lutheran church."

Eastman organist will present inaugural organ recital

David Higgs, head of the Organ Department at Eastman School of Music, in Rochester, N.Y., will perform an inaugural concert on the new Wartburg Chapel organ Sunday, Sept. 15, at 4 p.m.

Higgs has been on the Eastman faculty since 1992. He performs extensively throughout the United States and abroad. The New York Times called him "one of the brightest, most promising young concert organists to have appeared on the American music scene in years."

Higgs has presented recent inaugural concerts on new instruments at St. Stephen's Cathedral in Vienna; the Church of St. Ignatius Loyola in New York City; Myerson Symphony Center in Dallas, Texas; and in Naples, Fla., site of the Naples International Organ Festival.

The New York City native held his first position as a church organist at age 10. He earned his Bachelor and Master of Music degrees at Manhattan School of Music, where he was appointed to the organ faculty upon graduation.

Before joining the Eastman faculty, he was director of music/organist at St. Mark's Episcopal Church in Berkeley, Calif., director of church music studies at the Church Divinity School of Pacific Episcopal Seminary, and organist/choir director at Temple Emanu-El in San Francisco.

Higgs made his orchestra debut with the San Francisco Symphony in 1987 and now performs regularly with the group.

COMING EVENTS

Symphony line-up ignites 1996-97 season

"Playing with Fire" will be the theme of the 1996-97 Wartburg Community Symphony season under the direction of Dr. Janice Wade, music director and conductor.

The orchestra will present five concerts in Neumann Auditorium, beginning with an 8 p.m. Homecoming performance Saturday, Oct. 26. The holiday concert for families is set for 2 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 14. Other performances are scheduled at 8 p.m. Saturdays, Feb. 15, April 5, and May 17.

Season memberships admit an individual or a family to all five of the concerts. Individual memberships are $25, admitting one person to all five concerts. A basic family membership, which admits the whole family to a concert, costs $40. Other levels, which provide the symphony with more significant support. The cost to support an endowed chair in the symphony is $1,600.

For more information or to receive a season brochure, call membership co-chair Verona Zelle, 319-352-2348.

nurturing students for lives of leadership and service comes alive in expression of their faith and learning service-learning

In February, 71 Wartburg students spent Winter Term break as volunteers in service projects throughout the country. During the 1996 May Term, Wartburg groups helped build a bridge in Guyana and worked on a family farm in Palestine. Throughout the year, students organized Habitat for Humanity work crews and volunteered their time to many other worthwhile endeavors.

Campus Pastor Larry Trachte '66 estimates that one-third to one-half of Wartburg's student population is involved in service of some kind.

"The key to service at Wartburg is the kind of students we attract, the kind of homes and communities they come from. These students want to serve," Trachte says.

Service is not new to Wartburg. It plays a prominent role in the college's mission statement: "challenging and nurturing students for lives of leadership and service as a spirited expression of their faith and learning."

What's newer about service at Wartburg is the concept of service-learning, which promotes service as a formal opportunity for learning.

"With service-learning, there is an active process of reflection on the experience, a way to get students to think about what they have learned, not just what they felt," says Dr. Alexander (Lex) Smith, vice president for student life and dean of students.

BRIDGE BUILDING—Wartburg students built a bridge and bridged cultures during a May Term trip to Guyana. Students helped residents of a remote Amerindian village dig holes for the bridge supports and maneuver logs into place with ropes and handmade levers. The only power equipment used in the project was a chain saw for cutting the trees.

"We are more intentional about having students who are involved in service do such things as keep journals during their experience and meet regularly to talk about what they are learning about themselves and the community."

In 1994, Wartburg was one of only 30 independent colleges and universities across the country awarded Learning and Service Alliance grants. Dr. Fred Waldstein '74, director of the Institute for Leadership Education, says the grant helped the college expand ways in which service-learning is integrated into the curriculum.

"Service has been an integral part of leadership education at Wartburg," notes Waldstein. "It is reflected in our definition of leadership: Taking responsibility for our communities and making them better through public action."

"International service-learning can help us focus on the importance of building bridges across cultures."

Waldstein says service connects individuals to their communities.

"By engaging with others to address community needs, we appreciate the contributions we as individuals can make and the satisfaction we derive from working with others toward mutually beneficial goals," he observes. "At Wartburg, we provide students with the experiential context for developing that appreciation and sense of satisfaction. If we are successful, they will carry this through the rest of their lives."

According to Waldstein, the connection to community is especially important in the international context. "We are all members of the community of humankind. International service-learning can help us focus on the importance of building bridges across cultures."

Critical to the success of international service-learning, he says, is working with the community "to develop an agenda that meets their needs as well as ours."

Students who spent the 1994 and 1996 May Terms in Guyana put this concept to work in projects identified by local communities. In 1994, the students conducted a site survey of solid waste in the capital of Georgetown, built a walking path through archaeological and historical areas, helped in medical clinics, and provided funds to build a water tower. This year, they spent part of the month testing water quality, building a bridge, and helping process cassava, a locally grown and widely used root plant.

"We gained a sense of perspective that could not be obtained by mere passive observation," said Michael Scherb '97 of Spencer, Iowa. "Working side-by-side with the Guyanese people was an exciting and memorable experience."

The nearly 40 students who spent

May Term in Israel this year worked for a day on a Palestinian family farm. The students learned that the three brothers who operate the farm could lose their land if it is not cultivated.

"This farm was like a little island, surrounded by Israeli settlements," said Eric Hanson '96. "After we had worked for awhile, Fred (Strickert, professor of religion) had us all sit down, and he explained the situation there and why it was important that things should be grown on the farm."

The students kept journals and had regular discussions about what they were experiencing and learning.

"It is in giving that we receive," says Trachte of service-learning. "We try to instill in students that they are learning. We can go down to Americus, Ga., where we pound some nails to help build a house as part of Habitat for Humanity. We come back having learned about community, poverty, caring, and life in a way we can't learn about these things on campus."

Habitat for Humanity, coordinated through Campus Ministry, is one of Wartburg's most visible service programs. Habitat projects have become part of student-initiated winter break service trips that started in 1994 with 12 students traveling to inner-city Philadelphia. On that first trip, sponsored by the Catholic Knights, the students stayed with the Sisters of Holy Redeemer and worked with the homeless.

From that beginning, the winter break service trips grew to include 71 students on five trips this past winter.

"The students raised more than $20,000 for these trips, they asked faculty or staff to go with them as many Saturdays working on Habitat homes in Waterloo.

"You are spending your time doing something to help, and it is fun. For me it's how religion is supposed to work," he says. "You do something about a situation; you don't just stand around and talk about it."

Kathleen Komiskey '97 of Lanark, Ill., agrees: "It's contagious, and it's so emotional. We come back and just have to talk about it. Regardless of what anybody says, I'm going to get up on Saturday mornings to go work on a house."

Griswold says he enjoys talking to and learning about the owners of the houses he works on, and he likes to see the physical result of what he is doing. "I've done roofing, siding, and hauled dirt," he says. "There is a wide variety of jobs to be done on the homes, and Habitat people will teach you how to hammer a nail if you don't know how."

For many years, Wartburg's Campus Ministry has sponsored an Adopt-A-Grandparent organization that promotes relationships between students and residents of Bartels Lutheran Home in Waverly. Service-learning at Wartburg also involves athletes and social work and education students working with area schools and social service agencies. Students in the leadership program promote recycling programs and deal with other environmental issues.

Among the 16 Iowa colleges and universities participating in the Americorp-Iowa Community Action Network program this past academic year, Wartburg had the most students. The program provides monetary awards to students who complete 900 hours of service during the year. The awards are advisers, and they decided on the locations," Smith said.

This year the students went to Washington, D.C., Abilene, Texas, and Denver, Colo., for the first time. They also returned to Americus, Ga., and Appalachia, where Wartburg groups had gone before.

What do the students gain from participating in such trips?

"It's kind of empowering to spend your time doing this good thing," says Steffin Griswold '97 of Varna, Ill. Griswold is involved in Habitat for Humanity. He participated in a service trip to Louisiana in 1995 and spends held in trust for college loan repayment or payment to an institution of higher education when the students graduate. Four of the seven Wartburg students who began the program have completed their 900 hours.

Students in the 12 suites of The Residence initiate service-learning projects as a requirement for living in the residence hall. The groups submit project proposals, which must be approved by a committee of students, staff, and faculty. Suites set out goals to accomplish during the year, work with faculty, staff, or community adviser, conduct and attend weekly meetings, and complete administrative reports for the Residential Life Office.

Another initiative this past academic year was a weeklong St. Elizabeth's Fest, a November celebration of service-learning that will be repeated this fall. The week included a half-day service fair, when college and community organizations provided booths to highlight their service to the community. The annual high school leadership conference held on campus that week also focused on service-learning.

The event was named for St. Elizabeth, who lived at Wartburg Castle during the 13th century and was declared a saint in 1235. Her interest in the teachings of St. Francis of Assisi, her service to those in need, and her connections with the Wartburg Castle led the Social Work Department to "adopt" St. Elizabeth as Wartburg's first social worker. ■

Sherry Parrish, now of Danville, Pa., is the former director of college relations at Wartburg.

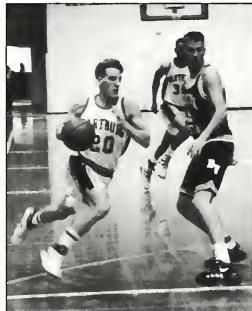

Residence hall suites get involved in service

When Wartburg first opened The Residence in 1987, the Residential Life staff decided the hall's suite-style living arrangement offered opportunities for student development through service. To live in The Residence, suites must develop a service project. Recent projects have included:

- Building positive relationships with residents of Bartels Lutheran Home;
- Educating teens about the consequences of premarital sex;
- Planning and implementing youth activities in a local church;
- Educating the Wartburg/Waverly communities about women's issues;
- Overseeing the Waverly-Shell Rock High School computer lab;
- Removing litter from the city cemetery and parks for the Waverly Parks and Recreation Department;

- Volunteering at the Cedar Valley Mental Health Center;
- Training as Victim Advocate Volunteers for the Cedar Valley Friends of the Family/Iowa Domestic Abuse Hotline;
- Volunteering at the Cedar Valley Food Bank in Waterloo;
- Tutoring Waverly-Shell Rock elementary students during school hours;
- Providing music therapy for residents of the Bremer County Larrabee Center;
- Providing reduced-rate child care to parents and churches in Waverly and donating the proceeds to Big Brothers/Big Sisters and Wartburg's Early Childhood Program;
- Working on recycling and clean-up projects on campus and with the Waverly Parks and Recreation Department;
- Providing worship experiences for students at the Bremwood Lutheran Children's Home;
- Volunteering with the Cedar AIDS Support System.

WINTER Sports Roundup

HOME COURT ACTION—Guard Eric Foote of Newton, Iowa, heads down court in a February game against Buena Vista at Knights Gym.

MEN'S BASKETBALL

An early season injury proved critical as the men's basketball team suffered through its first losing season in 11 years and only its fourth since 1963-64.

The Knights lost forward Rich Kloster of Manly, Iowa, in the fourth game of the season and then stumbled to a 10-15 record. Kloster was averaging 18.2 points and 5.0 rebounds when he went down. Without him, Wartburg lost six games by six points or less.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

A young women's basketball team bounced back from last year's 11-12 season to post a 17-7 record and return to the first division of the Iowa Conference.

Coach Monica Severson started the season with seven first-year players on her roster, two of whom missed most of the season because of knee injuries that required surgery.

"I feel good about the progress we made during the year," Severson said. "We came together as a team. The leadership provided by our seniors was critical, particularly early in the season when we were so inexperienced. This team displayed a lot of mental toughness and never gave up, even when we had a couple of critical injuries. Our younger players have now experienced a tight conference race, so I hope we can learn from that experience and build on it next year."

WRESTLING: Knights achieve Wartburg's first national title

Was Jamal Fox prophetic when he suggested "Constructing a Dynasty" as the theme for the 1995-96 wrestling poster?

If so, the Waterloo, Iowa, native played a key role in making it come true. Fox won a national championship at 142 pounds. He and five other All-Americans, including a second national champion in Tom Smith of Dubuque, Iowa, led Wartburg to its first national NCAA Division III title.

The Knights scored 95.5 points, six more than runner-up and defending national champion Augsburg College of Minneapolis, Minn.

Winning it all ended three years of frustration for coach Jim Miller, who was named Division III Coach of the Year for the second time in four years. The Knights lost the national championship by a single point in 1993 and by 2.75 points in 1994. They finished sixth in 1995, despite qualifying all 10 wrestlers.

"It was really close, like in '93 and '94, and it looked like it could come down to the same thing," Miller said, "but we won some critical matches and put it away. It's great for Wartburg and for the Iowa Conference."

The Knights took a two-point lead over Augsburg into the championship round when Blake Williams of Decorah, Iowa, pinned Jeff Santos of Plymouth State (N.H.) 1:23 into the fifth-place, 190-pound match. Smith at 126 and Fox then put it away for the Knights in the championship round.

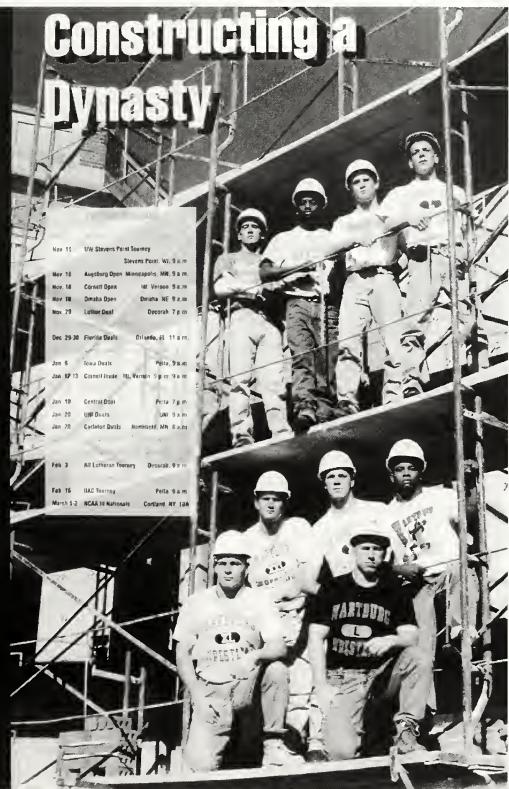

Smith, who outscored his opponents 61-16 in the tournament and had a 45-2 record for the year, was a national runner-up a year ago. Fox placed third as a sophomore and second as a junior.

The Knights had a third finalist in sophomore Mike Alesch of Graettinger, Iowa, at 167. Williams finished fifth at 190, Chad Gerbracht of Independence, Iowa, fourth at 177, and Dusty Rhodes of Osage, Iowa, sixth at 134.

"Our wrestlers at 177 and 190 were unheralded," Miller said, "but we wouldn't have had a chance if we weren't for them."

Also scoring points for the Knights but not placing were Preston Essex of Waterloo, Iowa, at 118, Brian Roberts of Kansas City, Kan., at 150, and Greg Halsor of Cedar Falls, Iowa, at 158.

WARTBURG WRESTLING

WINNING POSTER—Even the poster was a winner in what turned out to be the Knights' national championship year. The wrestling poster won an award of excellence in a competition sponsored by the Northeast Iowa Chapter of Women in Communications. The theme was suggested by team member Jamal Fox. Wartburg graphic designer Penny Sund created the poster, and Dan Nierling of Waterloo, Iowa, took the photograph.

Conference wrestling tournament puts Wartburg in record book

Lost in the excitement of a national wrestling championship was the fact that the Knights finished 18-2 in dual meets with their only losses to Iowa State and Indiana. The wrestlers won their fourth consecutive Iowa Conference wrestling championship, giving Wartburg its 14th wrestling title, an IIAC record.

Wartburg crowned a school-record six conference champions, and Dusty Rhodes was voted the tournament's Most Valuable Wrestler after upsetting defending national champion Scott Stefl of Loras at 134. Only heavyweight Matt Powelka of Janesville, Iowa, who was hampered by injuries for the second straight year, did not qualify for the national tournament.

Just two wrestlers graduate from this year's roster: Jamal Fox, who finished the season 45-6 and his career with a 157-37 record, which makes him the winningest wrestler in Wartburg history; and Chad Gerbracht, 32-15 this year and 71-47 for his career.

Former Cornell coach named director of athletics

Gary S. Grace, formerly associate director of athletics and basketball coach at Cornell College in Mt. Vernon, Iowa, is Wartburg's new athletic director.

He has assumed the administrative duties formerly held by Bob Nielson '82, now head football coach at the University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire. Grace also will teach in the Health, Physical Education, and Athletics Department.

"It is an opportunity for me to provide leadership in taking Wartburg to the national level in as many sports as possible," he said.

Grace had coached basketball at Cornell since 1988. His team won the Midwest Conference championship and was invited to the NCAA Division III postseason tournament in 1994. He compiled the best five-year record in school history from 1989 to 1994. His teams were regionally ranked in 1991, 1992, and 1994.

He had been associate director of athletics at Cornell since 1989 and was a guest basketball coach for the Gabon, Africa, national team in 1993.

Grace earned his bachelor's degree and a master's degree in post-secondary athletic administration at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, where he also served for two years as an assistant basketball coach.

Two Knights named Academic All-America

Two Wartburg athletes were named to the 1995-96 GTE Academic All-America College Division Fall/Winter At-Large Team by vote of the College Sports Information Directors of America.

Senior Jeff Allen of Grinnell, Iowa, who runs cross country, made the first team. Junior Sacha Riddell of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, who plays midfielder on the women's soccer team, was named to the third team.

Allen, a mathematics major, had a 3.95 cumulative grade point average. He was the Knights' number-two cross country runner most of the season, but he was the men's top finisher in the Iowa Conference meet.

Riddell, a biology major, had a 3.99 GPA. She scored four goals and had an assist on a team that finished 4-12-2.

Wartburg 18th in preseason poll

Wartburg is 18th in Bob Gries's 1996 College Football Yearbook, which ranks the top 25 NCAA Division III teams in the nation.

The only other Iowa Conference school in the preseason ranking is defending champion Central, which is rated 16th.

The Knights, who finished 9-1 last year, open the season Sept. 14 with a non-conference home game against Augustana (Ill.), ranked 22nd, and then travel to Central the following week.

Steve Hagen will be making his debut as a head coach in the Knights opening game. He comes to Wartburg from the University of Nevada-Las Vegas, where he was offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach.

Evansville assistant takes over men's basketball program

Marty Simmons, assistant basketball coach at the University of Evansville for the past six years, is the new men's basketball coach at Wartburg. He succeeds Howard Gauthier, who coached the Knights for three years and is now athletic director at Briar Cliff College in Sioux City, Iowa.

As assistant under Jim Crews at Evansville, Simmons was responsible for coordination of underclass recruiting, game preparation, player development, and implementation of weight and conditioning programs.

Since 1990, Evansville has compiled a 113-58 record, including appearances in two Midwestern Collegiate Conference Championships, two NCAA Tournaments, one NIT Tournament, and one preseason NIT Tournament.

A native of Lawrenceville, Ill., Simmons was Mr. Basketball in Illinois as a high school senior in 1983. He played for two years at Indiana University, where he was MVP of the 1983 Hoosier Classic. In 1985, he transferred to the University of Evansville and was a first team all-conference player in 1987 and 1988. After graduating from Evansville, Simmons played for the La Crosse Catbirds of the Continental Basketball Association and the Illinois Express World Basketball League.

"We are very fortunate to attract a person with Marty Simmons' credentials and background," said athletic director Gary Grace.

Simmons and his wife, Angie, have three children: Brittany, 9, Kelsey, 4, and Blake, 2.

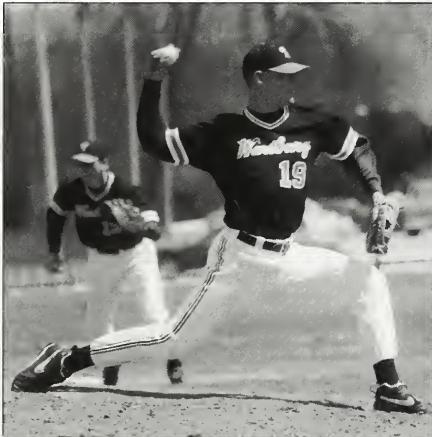

Cross country teams set pace in classroom

The 1995 men's and women's cross country teams and nine individuals received All-Academic recognition from the NCAA Division III Coaches Association based on achieving cumulative grade point averages of 3.0 or higher on a 4.0 scale.

The women's team ranked fourth in the nation with a cumulative grade point average of 3.64. The men's team ranked 25th with a 3.37 GPA. The team scores were based on the GPAs of the seven runners who competed in the NCAA Central Regional at Waverly.

Individuals cited on the men's team were Matthew Hansen of Albert City, Iowa; Dion Braet of Calamus, Iowa; Jeff Allen of Grinnell, Iowa; Ryan Harms of Morrison, Iowa; and Patrick Hennes of Sartell, Minn. Women's team members earning recognition were Angela Busche of Cedar Falls, Iowa; Tammy Hildebrand of Iowa Falls, Iowa; Heidi Ludvigsen of Kasson Minn.; and Angela Knips of Lismore, Minn.

SPRING Sports Roundup

PITCHING LEADER—

Sophomore Derek Hartl of Iowa Falls, Iowa, was credited with five wins in the Knights '96 campaign under first-year coach Joel Holst.

BASEBALL: Team posts record wins

Under first-year coach Joel Holst, the Knights set a school record for most wins in a season.

Despite a late-season slump that saw the team drop five of its last six games, the Knights finished 20-20-1. The tie resulted from a time limitation at the Metrodome in Minneapolis, Minn.

"We were competitive with nearly everyone in our first year, and that makes this season a good stepping stone for the future," Holst said. "Our players know they must and can get better."

MEN'S GOLF: Sixth-place finish

The golf team entered the season with high hopes. Its complete line-up returned from a year ago, when the Knights were sixth in the Iowa Conference but only 10 strokes out of third. However, a combination of bad weather and subpar play resulted in another sixth-place finish.

SOFTBALL: Growing pains for young team

A young, inexperienced softball team suffered through some growing pains this spring, but coach Robin Hoppenworth is optimistic about the future.

The Knights finished with a 14-16 record, but 12 of their losses were to ranked teams.

"It was a frustrating year in terms of wins and losses," Hoppenworth said, but added that six new faces were in the starting line-up. "A number of our younger players started to come by the end of the season, and that gives us hope for the future."

MEN'S TENNIS: Fourth in conference

Handicapped by not having a true number-one player all season, the tennis team finished 5-8 in dual meets.

MEN'S, WOMEN'S TRACK: Finish third

Both the men's and women's track teams ran to their potential this season, according to coach Steve Johnson, but in the women's case, graduation had claimed too much. They were unable to win their fourth straight Iowa Conference championship.

"That was as good as we were," Johnson said of the men's and women's performances in the IIAC meet. "We figured it would be between Loras and Luther in the women's meet and that any one of six teams would score well in the men's meet. We had some stand-out performances."

Earning All-American honors were Chris Shannon of Fairbank, Iowa; Josh Watters of Dubuque, Iowa; and Esther Dubec of Des Moines, Iowa.

RELAY RUNNERS—

Amber Kucera '99 of Marne, Iowa, foreground, prepares to take the baton from Leah Lenhart '97 of Keystone, Iowa, in a relay at the Wartburg Invitational March 30. Three women's relay teams set school records during the indoor and outdoor seasons.

Wartburg establishes Athletic Hall of Fame

Five former athletes and a coach will be inducted into Wartburg's newly established Athletic Hall of Fame at Homecoming Oct. 26.

Retired basketball coach Buzz Levick organized and chaired the committee of Wartburg faculty, staff, and alumni charged with establishing Athletic Hall of Fame guidelines and selecting the first inductees.

Hall of Famers will participate in the Homecoming parade and be introduced prior to the start of the Homecoming football game. The formal induction will take place at a dinner in the Castle Room following the game.

Dr. Elmer Hertel

Hertel, who died in 1981, was a longtime friend of Wartburg athletics, coaching from 1935 through 1937. He taught biology from 1931 until his retirement in 1979.

He was secretary of the Iowa Conference for 37 years. Hertel Field, home of Knights baseball, and the Hertel All-Sports Trophy, a traveling trophy that circulates each year to the top Iowa Conference school in all sports, are named after him. This was the 60th year for Wartburg's Hertel Award, which goes to the top multisport senior athlete in both men's and women's athletics.

Art Margheim '57

Rochelle, Ill.
Retired High School Counselor

Margheim was a three-time All-IIAC selection in basketball and a first-team pick in football in 1955, when he led the league in scoring. He passed for 1,827 yards and had a career total offense of 2,002 yards. In basketball, he averaged 17.2 points per game and had a career total of 1,338 points. He was a four-time letterwinner in baseball.

Arnie Brandt '58

Sioux City, Iowa
Teacher, Sioux City School System

Brandt was a two-time Iowa Conference wrestling champion, at 147 pounds in 1953 and at 177 pounds in 1954. The conference then dropped wrestling until 1959. He was undefeated with a 28-0 record in dual meets during his career. In football, he was an All-Iowa Conference guard twice and in 1957 was voted the league's outstanding lineman.

Dr. Marvin Ott '61

Waverly, Iowa
Director of Computer Services, Wartburg College

Ott lettered 11 times. He led the Knights to two Iowa Conference championships in football, two in basketball, and one in baseball. In football, he gained 2,981 yards in total offense and scored 163 points. In basketball, he averaged 5.8 points per game for his career. In baseball, he hit .358 and had a 12-5 pitching record. He was twice named to the All-IIAC team in football and was a football All-American in 1960.

G.E. Buening '70

Denver, Colo.
Manager, Century Companies of America Insurance Agency

Buening is Wartburg's all-time leading scorer in men's basketball with 1,932 points (an 18.2 average). He played on four Iowa Conference championship teams and in three national NAIA tournaments. In his senior year, he was named to two All-American teams. He also pitched briefly for the baseball team.

Lynn Dose '84

Waterloo, Wis.
Teacher and Athletic Director, Waterloo High School

Dose, who played women's basketball, is the Knights' all-time leading rebounder with 985. She ranks third in all-time scoring with 1,491 points. In her senior year, she was the Iowa Conference's Most Valuable Player and a first team All-IIAC selection. She still holds or shares four school records.

Longtime football coach dies of cancer May 14

Dr. Don Canfield, 55, head football coach at Wartburg College from 1973 through 1990, died of cancer May 14 at his home in Northfield, Minn. He had been head football coach at St. Olaf College, his alma mater, since leaving Wartburg.

Canfield learned of his cancer shortly after the 1995 football season. A highlight of his final campaign was the Oles' last-second victory over St. John's University, Collegeville, Minn., traditional Minnesota Conference powerhouse.

At Wartburg, Canfield's teams were 97-71-1, won two Iowa Conference championships, finished second three times, and qualified for the college's first NCAA Division III football playoff appearance.

He is survived by his wife, Jean, and two children, Amy of Minneapolis, Minn., and Mark '94 of Northfield.

A Don Canfield memorial fund has been established at Wartburg. Contributions may be directed to the Development Office.

Athletic Hall of Fame guidelines announced

Plans call for inducting five athletes and one coach each year to the Wartburg Athletic Hall of Fame. According to Buzz Levick, chair of the Hall of Fame Selection Committee, the following nomination guidelines have been established.

Athletes:

- Must be Wartburg graduates but need not have done all their undergraduate work at the college;
- Must have graduated at least 10 years prior to the award year;
- Must have been outstanding athletes at Wartburg as substantiated by All-Conference or All-America honors or career statistics;
- Must have demonstrated some evidence of professional or personal achievement after graduation;
- Must have made a contribution to the communities in which they have lived;
- Must be morally and ethically above reproach.

Coaches:

- Must have coached at Wartburg for five years after 1935;
- Must have been retired from coaching at the college for at least five years;
- Success on the field, leadership qualities, contributions to the college and to student-athletes, and moral and ethical characteristics will all be considered as part of the criteria
- Circumstances of the era in which the coach worked will be taken into consideration.

Once an individual is nominated, his or her name will stay on the ballot for 10 years. The Hall of Fame Selection Committee selects the inductees.

Future candidates for the Wartburg Athletic Hall of Fame may be nominated by alumni, parents, friends of the college, faculty or staff members. Nominations must be submitted by Oct. 1 each year to Buzz Levick, 1823 Second Ave., N.W., Waverly, Iowa 50677.

Alumni Association will honor six with citations

The Wartburg Alumni Association will award six Alumni Citations at the Homecoming Alumni Dinner Friday, Oct. 25. The citations recognize contribution to and support of the college, vocational and professional achievements, and contributions to the community and/or church.

Rebecca Peterson Kamm '74 Decorah, Iowa

Kamm's citation will recognize her work in refugee resettlement in the Decorah area, where churches have sponsored more than 450 Asian and European refugees who have suffered persecution.

Kamm is a full-time communications faculty member at Northeast Iowa Community College in Calmar, Iowa. Over the past 18 years, she has taught English-as-a-second-language on all levels, from junior high up. She has also been a volunteer refugee advocate with social service, community, and law enforcement agencies and the public schools.

Several high school and college students have received degrees as result of Kamm's efforts, and she is the godmother of several Southeast Asian children and adults.

Maynard G. Sautter '49 St. Paul, Minn.

An expert on employment regulations, Sautter has published eight books on employment law and practices. His work has been the basis for similar publications in about 25 states.

After graduating from Wartburg, he worked as a sales manager for a manufacturing firm. He then spent 15 years as an office services and public relations manager for an insurance group. From 1965 though 1990, he was vice president and research manager for the St. Paul Employers Association, Inc. Since retiring six years ago, he has been a consultant in human resources. He also writes and edits employment manuals.

In 1994, Sautter received the Outstanding Volunteer Award for his work with the American Association of Retired Persons, Minneapolis Methodist Hospital, and the National Panel of Consumer Arbitrators.

Gilbert '59 and Mary Reiff '60 Wessel Cedar Rapids, Iowa

The Wessels are being honored for their contributions to the college and church. He is an obstetrician/gynecologist, and she is a homemaker/substitute teacher.

He was an Alumni Board member and served as its president. She continues to promote Wartburg in their local congregation and in the Cedar Rapids area. Both attend Wartburg events with regularity and seek ways for the college to have a greater presence in their community.

The Wessels were in the first group of Alumni Challengers and continue to contribute to the college at that level. He is one of two alumni on Wartburg's long-range planning committee.

David R. Van Ahn '64 West Des Moines, Iowa

After 20 years of teaching and coaching, Van Ahn has spent the past 12 years in the insurance business. He is currently a senior agent with The Principal Insurance Group. His citation recognizes contributions to the college and his community, particularly with the physically and developmentally disabled.

He was a member of the Variety Club for eight years and served on its board for six years, assisting the children of Iowa. He has been a board member of the Children's Habilitation Center, a convalescent home, since 1988 and an office holder of the Des Moines Leadership Institute. He also serves on the boards of the Easter Seal Society and Special Arts of Iowa.

Deborah Zackery '73 Rochester, Minn.

Zackery is a District Multiculture Gender Disability Specialist in the Rochester, Minn., School District. A special education teacher, she previously taught on both the elementary and secondary level and has been a leader in incorporating inclusive education in all areas of the curriculum.

She has played a major role in increasing the enrollment and retention of African-American students on the Wartburg campus. She served as a co-chair of the Minority Alumni Advisory Committee. She frequently travels to the campus to lead study skills seminars for Wartburg students and sensitivity training sessions with administrators and staff.

She also is a columnist for the Rochester Post Bulletin, writing on a variety of multicultural issues.

'Small world' experience brings alumni together

When Ginger Duncan '94, Lisa Ness '90, and Sherry Torgerson '91 attended a January missionary conference in Moscow, they got an unexpected bonus—a Wartburg reunion.

It might qualify as the year's most far-flung and unexpected alumna gathering.

"We marveled about how God brought all three of us to this part of the world to serve as missionary teachers," said Duncan. Though they teach in different parts of the former Soviet Union, the women all work through Campus Crusade for Christ, which organized the conference.

Duncan teaches fifth, sixth, and seventh grades at New Hope Christian School in the Ukraine.

Ness teaches at Hinkson Christian Academy in Moscow. Since her arrival there in 1992, she has taught a wide variety of classes, including secondary math, biology, life science, chemistry, basic science, girls' physical education, and preparation for life classes.

Torgerson spent the 1994-95 year teaching first, second, and third grades in Vilnius, Lithuania.

Editorial reins pass from one Wartburg journalist to another

Charles P. Lutz '53 will soon hand over editorial management of Metro Lutheran, a monthly Lutheran newspaper published in Minneapolis, Minn., to another Wartburg alumnus, the Rev. Michael L. Sherer '63.

LUTZ, who is retiring, has edited the publication for the past seven years. With a circulation of 47,000, it serves more than 650 Lutheran congregations in 20 counties of east-central Minnesota and west-central Wisconsin.

Lutz has had a distinguished career as a theologically-trained lay leader in American Lutheranism. He is a graduate of the Evangelical Lutheran Theological Seminary (now Trinity Lutheran Seminary) in Columbus, Ohio.

For many years, Lutz edited One, a youth publication of the former American Lutheran Church. Later, he served as director of the ALC's Office of Church in Society. He edited Farming the Lord's Land and Church Roots and has authored 10 other books.
